

Young children will love to follow the Hat Family as they travel around the world! Along the way, they will learn about the customs and special holidays and festivals of 12 different cultures from far-away countries.

Part 1: Bolivia, Trinidad & Tobago, Greece

Here we join the Hat Family on their first three stops of a year-long-educational journey around the world. First to Bolivia in South America in January to participate in the Andes Mountain traditional "Alacitas Fair," also called the "Festival of Ekeko." In February they visit the island country of Trinidad and Tobago in the Caribbean to celebrate "Mardi Gras." Then it's off to Europe in March to celebrate Greece's "Independence Day."

Part 2: Thailand, China, Germany

The Hat Family's journey around the world takes them in April to Asia to celebrate Thailand's "Old Thai (Buddhist) New Year" and the end of a the dry season during the Songkran ("Water Festival"). In May they head to China and join in the friendly competition of the "Dragon Boat Festival" (a.k.a. "Double Boat Festival.") Next it's off to Europe and Germany in June to listen to the music of Beethoven, Handel, and Wagner and to view the famous "Pied Piper of Hamelin" play.

Part 3: Belgium, Ghana, India

The Hat Family's journey around the world continues in Europe in July as they enjoy Belgium's "Ommegang Festival" in the central market square. Next they're off to the southern coast of West Africa in August where they celebrate Ghana's ancient tribal ritual called the "Yam Festival." Then in September they're off to Asia Family to join India's mythological Ram Lila Hindu pageant of the ten-day "Dussehra Festival."

Part 4: Western Samoa, United Kingdom, Israel

The Hat Family's worldwide tour concludes with three special holidays. In October they travel to the tiny tropical island country of Western Samoa and celebrate "White Sunday." Next they're off to England, the island country home of William Shakespeare, where every November the English people celebrate "Guy Fawkes' Day." The Hat Family's year-long-journey ends in December in Israel as they celebrate Hanukkah, the "Festival of Lights," and exchange gifts.
